

A 10x10 grid with various blue geometric shapes (triangles, squares) placed in specific cells, representing a sparse matrix or data distribution. The shapes are distributed across the grid, with some cells containing multiple shapes. The shapes are primarily located in the upper half of the grid, with a few scattered in the lower half.